

AVELAND ARCHIVE NEEDS YOU!

FREE ORAL HISTORY TRAINING

Come and learn how to interview friends, relatives - or complete strangers, to help us create a documented oral history of our local area. Interviews will be uploaded to Aveland Archive, as well as contributing to Leicester University Sounds of the Future Project.

Colin Hyde, Outreach Officer for the East Midlands Oral History Archive housed at The University of Leicester will come and train us, on how to record and digitise our residents' reminiscences and memories.

Colin will hold two sessions with up to 12 people per session at 2.00 PM and 6.30 PM on Tuesday 21st November. The training sessions, lasting two hours each, will be held at St James Church, Aslackby. As places are strictly limited, please send an email with your name and contact telephone number and choice of afternoon or evening session to: avelandarchive@gmail.com to book your place.

Funded by the National Lottery Heritage Fund, our training will be free to delegates, though a donation for teas and coffees would be welcome.

Take a look at our history: www.avelandarchive.org.uk